

Elizabeth Weeks Leonard
Associate Professor
The University of Kansas School of Law

Elizabeth Leonard joined the KU law faculty in 2004. She is a summa cum laude graduate of The University of Georgia School of Law, where she was a visiting professor in 2003, teaching Health Care Financing and Public Health Law. Before teaching, she practiced health law with Vinson & Elkins LLP, in Houston, Texas, and served as a law clerk for Judge Jacques L. Wiener Jr., of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and Chief Justice Thomas R. Phillips of the Supreme Court of Texas. She received her bachelor's degree from Columbia University and worked as a psychiatric social worker in Chicago, Illinois, before attending law school. Her research interests include health care financing and regulation, public health, and disaster preparedness. She coordinated the Kansas Law Review Symposium on "The Massachusetts Plan and the Future of Universal Coverage" in November 2006.

Her recent publications include "Failure to Connect: The Massachusetts Plan for Individual Health Insurance," 55 Kansas Law Review 1283 (2007); "After the Catastrophe: Disaster Relief for Hospitals," 85 North Carolina Law Review 223 (2006); and "Gauging the Cost of Loopholes: Health Care Pricing and Medicare Regulation in the Post-Enron Era, 40" Wake Forest Law Review 1215 (2005).

Her research interests include health care financing and regulation, health care reform, and public health law. Leonard received a J.D. in 1999 from University of Georgia, where she was Editor in Chief of the Georgia Law Review, and received a B.A. in 1993 from Columbia University.